

Do you need a Fractional Sales Manager?

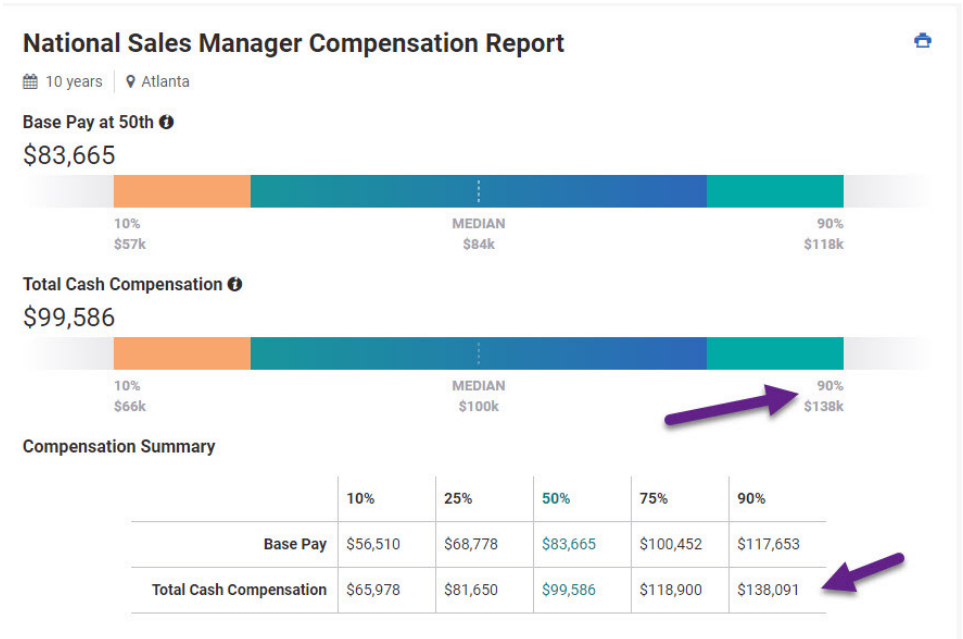

If any of these are true, let's talk!

- Lagging sales – Sales aren't where they need to be.
- No improvement – Salespeople aren't getting better.
- Hostage – You have one or two great salespeople with their own processes. If they leave, so do their processes.
- "A" Players – The big companies take them, and you are left to coach up the B and C players. But you don't have time.
- No written Sales Playbook – Everyone's doing their own thing and there's nothing to help onboard new salespeople.
- Money - Right now, you cannot afford a top-notch sales manager, so you either go without one or have someone in the position not really up to the task.
- CEO/President - You're spending too much time in the sales department managing the salespeople instead of planning and running your business.

Save your budget. Increase your sales.

| No need to spend this much to get results.

” We brought Louie in to help build a structure around our sales activities and growth. From job descriptions to building a complete sales playbook, Louie has been a valuable resource and is always on point when we need to strategize.
